SAENZ PEÑA

SAN MARTIN

Hotel B breathes new life into an abandoned historic national monument; a mansion reflecting the glamour of the 20s, surrounded by artist's studios, diplomatic residences and walking distance to the Malecón overlooking the Pacific Ocean. The historic building was constructed when Hotel Bolivar was in vogue. The place has been rebuilt to reflect a Grand Hotel designed by renowned Peruvian contemporaries including architect David Mutal, interior designer Jordi Puig, experience diseñadora Sandra Masias, restaurateur Oscar Velarde, marchand d'art Lucia de la Puente and art collector Susana de la Puente.

An arts-boutique Hotel in the heart of a bohemian revival neighborhood, housing a unique art collection. Hotel B has its own art gallery, which will provide guests with opportunities for private viewings, special events and a connection to Lima's blossoming art scene.

The Property

The House is a pristine example of a Belle Époque mansion, originally built as a summer seaside retreat during the presidency of Augusto Leguía, when Peru was celebrating 100 years of independence and Lima had been transformed for the occasion. Thus it captures the celebratory spirit of the 1920s.

The French architect Claude Sahut, also responsible for remodeling parts of the Government Palace, Lima's main avenues, parks, theatres and other public buildings, was commissioned to design a summer retreat for the Garcia Bedoya family. The original two-story house was constructed in 1914 with traditional local materials complemented by Italian marbles and imported woods. It included an ornate façade, high ceilings, teatinas (local styled skylights), open balconies and marbled terraces for ample ventilation.

Mrs. Maria Teresa García and her family occupied the property for 40 years until 1954, when the house was sold to the Báscones family who used it as their residence until 2010.

The reconstruction team includes sculptors from the Fine Arts Academy and a team of carpenters led by an Italian master woodcrafter. The project is considered a trademark of restoration by the INC (Peru's Historic Building Society). Remodeling and expansion preserved the original structure; adding a contrasting 3 story contemporary building to house additional rooms and service areas.

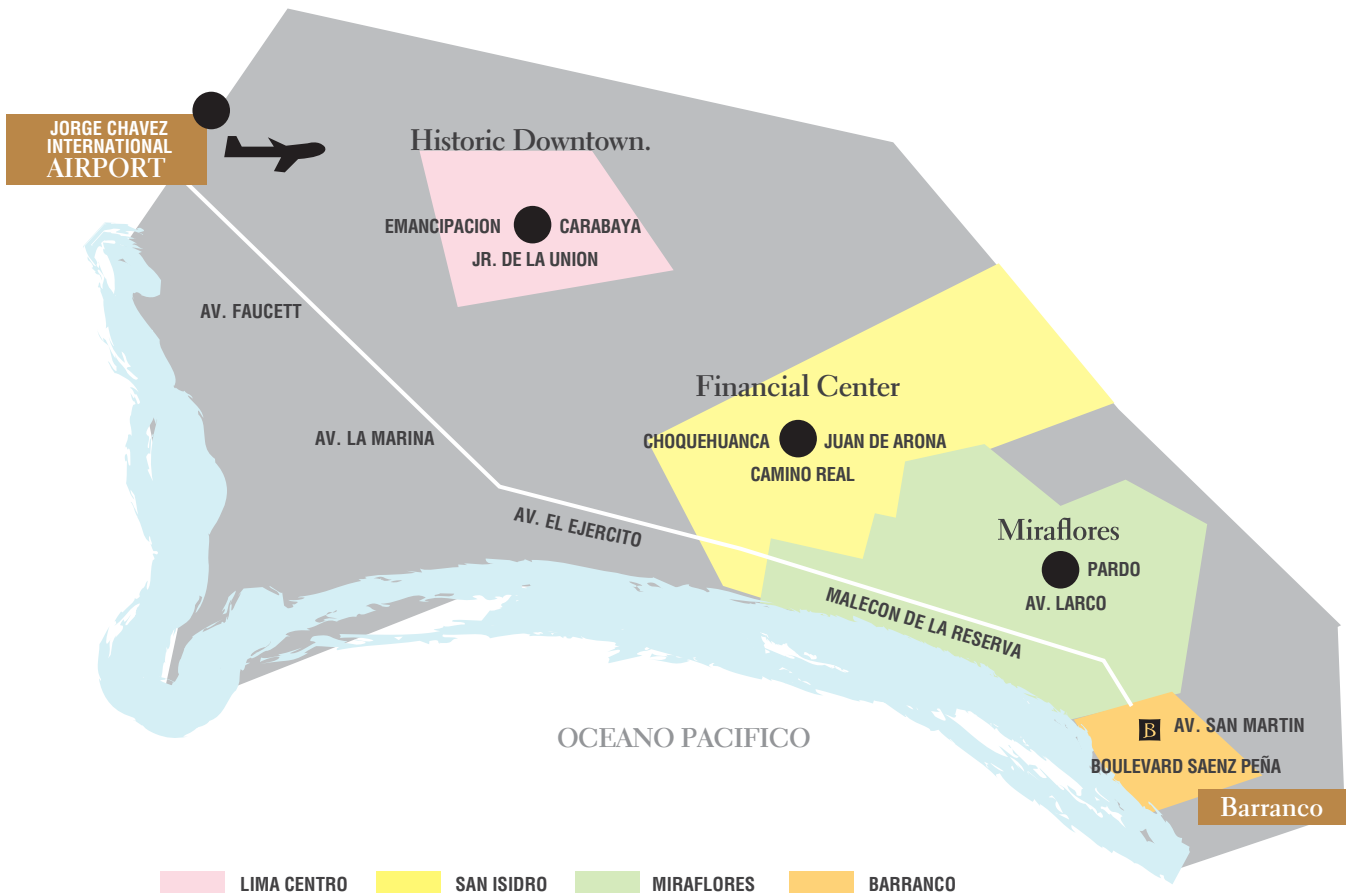

In 2018 the nextdoor art gallery Lucía de la Puente was annexed to Hotel B as part of the complex, adding 3 new rooms and giving our guests direct access to the exhibition hall and art shop.
